1: 1955 Extracts from "A Good Housewife Guide"	"Prepare yourself. Take 15 minutes to rest so you'll be refreshed when he arrives. Touch up your make-up, put a ribbon in your hair and be fresh-looking."	3: More Key Vocabulary	Malicious: intending to do harm to someone else
	"Listen to him. You may have a dozen important things to tell him, but the moment of his arrival is not the time. Let him talk first – remember, his topics of conversation are more important than yours."		Calculating: acting in a crafty, sneaky and determined way
	"Don't ask him questions about his actions...remember, he is the master of the house...you have no right to question him."		Justified: done something for a good reason
	"During the cooler months of the year, you should prepare and light a fire for your husband"		Unconventional: not behaving in the usual, stereotypical way
	"Don't complain if he is late for dinner, even if he stays out all night."		Reckless: careless of danger or of the consequences of your actions

2: Roald Dahl biography	Roald Dahl was born in Cardiff on 13 th September 1916 and died on 23 rd November 1990. He grew up in Llandaff, Wales.
	In November 1939 he joined the RAF. He crashed a plane in November 1940 and was taken to a hospital in Egypt.
	After visiting America, he fell in love and married his wife Patricia Neal in 1953. They went on to have five children.
	His first children's book was "The Gremlins" in 1943 and he then went on to write a further 20 books for children.
	As well as books he felt passionate about immunisations for children due to his daughter dying of measles. He also wrote 18 stories for adults.

Questions

1. Why can the 1955 'Good Housewife Guide' now be seen as sexist?
2. What was expected of women in 1955?
3. How many stories has Roald Dahl written for adults?
4. Based on Box 3, what do you think the first story will be about?
5. In what city was Roald Dahl born?
6. What does the word 'reckless' mean?

Word Revolution	Stereotype	A widely held but fixed and oversimplified image or idea of a particular type of person or thing.
	Inference	Reading between the lines using the information available to you.
	Foreshadowing	A warning or an indication of a future event.
1. Lamb to the Slaughter synopsis	Mary waits for her husband, Patrick, to return from work. Pregnant, Mary nevertheless works tirelessly to ensure everything is ready for Patrick when he arrives. Patrick, though, is distant and refuses the food and drink she has prepared. He hints at wanting a divorce.
	Shocked and in a sudden emotional shut-down, Mary continues trying to do what Patrick wants, offering to make dinner. She retrieves a frozen leg of lamb from the cellar,. Mary, still in a trance of sorts, hits him in the back of the head with the frozen leg, killing him
	Without feeling or shock, Mary calmly thinks of what to do to give herself an alibi. She practices questions and goes to the store to buy food. She remains jovial and cheerful as she goes about her chores and speaks to the grocer, Sam. She continues with her plan and calls the police.
	Detectives, a doctor, and others arrive and process the scene. Two of them, O'Malley and Noonan, stay with her and ask her questions. They all treat her kindly and with respect as they worked with Patrick. She tells them her story of going to the grocer, and the police take her at her word for everything.
	As the police search for and fail to find the murder weapon, Mary suggests Noonan, O'Malley, and the others eat the leg of lamb she has in the oven as she couldn't possibly eat at that moment.
2: Conventions of a news report	Clear – as if you were telling the story to one person; never use a long word where a short one will do just as well.
	Concise – keep to the key facts and don't bore your audience!
	Correct – get facts, grammar and punctuation right and be honest about where your information is from.
	A news report will always open with a brief summary to introduce the event.
	At the end of your report, you need to leave listeners with a lasting impression of the crime.
3: Understanding impartiality	Impartiality - fair treatment of others, without bias.
	'The BBC is committed to achieving due impartiality in all its output. This commitment is fundamental to our reputation, our values and the trust of audiences.'
	'In applying due impartiality to news, we give due weight to events, opinion and the main strands of argument.'
	'Reporters are the public face and voice of the BBC – they can have a significant impact on perceptions of whether impartiality has been achieved.'
	'Our audiences should not be able to tell from BBC output the personal opinions of the reporters. '
Questions	1. What are the three “C’s” of news reports?
	2. What does it mean to remain impartial?
	3. Should you be able to tell a BBC reporter’s opinion on an event or report?
	4. What is the name of the wife in “Lamb to the Slaughter”?
	5. What do the detectives do with the murder weapon at the end of the story?

History	Castles were quickly built in England so William could protect his new lands from foreign invaders as well as opposition from English opposition. Originally built from wood, with a defensive palisade (a tall fence) around a circular area called a bailey where ordinary people would feel protected to live and work. Linked to the bailey was a fortress ( keep) built on top of a man-made hill ( motte). It is estimated that over 500 castles were built in the first 2 years of William's reign. Stone keeps eventually replaced the wooden keep, along with a stone gatehouse. Concentric castles from the 12th Century had a double layer wall and round towers to give a greater view of attackers. The Feudal System was a hierarchical system designed to help William control England. William was ranked at the top with next in line noblemen, who in return for large amounts of land offered protection to the king in the form of money and an army. Some of this land was also distributed to the 3rd rank - the knights who would show their loyalty by fighting for their Lord and King. The peasants were at the bottom making 90% of the population.

	Shahadah	The Shahada is the Arabic term for the declaration of faith in one God (Allah) and His messenger Muhammed.
	Indicator	A sign or method of measurement.

1: Geography

Development can be measured in different ways:

Life expectancy	The average age a person lives to in an area.
GNI per capita	The amount of money a country makes divided by its population
Literacy rate	The number of people who can read & write in an area.
HDI (Human Development Index)	Made up of literacy rate, income, and life expectancy. 0 = least developed, 1 = most developed.

3: RSP

Muslims believe there is only one God, Allah. This belief is so important that they give this belief a special name, the Shahadah.

The Shahadah is the First Pillar of Islam

“There is no God but Allah and Muhammad (pbuh) is his prophet.”

The descriptions of God (Allah) in the Qur’an are called “His Ninety-Nine Beautiful names” Allah has many different descriptions and it is hard to represent him in a few words, so the Qur’an teaches that Allah has 99 names. Each of the 99 names relates to a particular attribute of Allah, making him easier to understand and relate to.

Al-Hakim (The Wise), Al-Hakam (The Judge), As-Salaam (The source of peace), Al-Basir (the all seeing) Al Wadud (the all loving) and Al-Rahim (The Most Merciful) are examples of Allah’s 99 names in the Qur’an.

2: History	The Domesday Book was a survey ordered by William in 1086 to gain knowledge of who owned land and the extent of people's wealth, so he could work out how much they could afford to contribute to their King. William was fearful of invasion so needed money to raise an army to defend England. The Domesday Book was one of the first examples of a census and required 2 big volumes to store the information, but you can see the contents online. It shows that William was in the top 10 richest men in the world in Norman Times. The Domesday Book tells us that The Catholic Church owned 25% of land in England. The Church also raised taxes called a tithe, amounting to 10% of earnings, though people could pay in goods rather than money. The Church was supported by William with a big programme of church and monastery building. Everyone went to Church.	1. What does literacy rate mean? 2. This is because the Qur'an is holy and very precious because it is the word of Allah (God). The Qur'an is kept on a high shelf. It is always covered with a special cloth. This shows how important the Qur'an is: there is nothing above it.

2: History	There were frequent clashes between the King and Church in Medieval Times. In 1170, Thomas Becket, the most important churchman, the Archbishop of Canterbury, argued with his friend, King Henry II. Henry was frustrated that Becket would not allow Kings courts to hear trial cases involving churchmen who had their own separate court system. Often churchmen received a lesser sentence than people not employed by The Church. Knights who overheard their argument misinterpreted Henry's wishes and murdered Thomas Becket in Canterbury Cathedral. One hypothesis ( =theory) is that Henry was so sorry that his loyal knights had killed his friend, that he ordered bishops to whip him. An alternative theory is that the whipping only happened 4 years later. Henry was facing rebellion and turned to the Pope for an army in exchange for punishment for Henry's murder.

Zakat is the third pillar of Islam. The word Zakat means 'to purify or cleanse'. Zakat is an act of worship as well as a religious duty. Muslims pay Zakat to gain Allah's favour. All Muslims are expected to be generous and look after the wider community, because in Islam, it is important to create peace and harmony. They must pay Zakat every year at the rate of 2.5% of their wealth (on their savings). Payment of Zakat is a way to keep free from greed and selfishness and encourages Muslims to be honest. Zakat also provides Muslims with the opportunity of sharing their wealth with the less fortunate. Muslims believe that all wealth and everything on the earth belongs to Allah. It is therefore the duty of the rich to share their wealth with the poor so that Allah's resources are fairly distributed and all people have clothes, food, water and shelter.

2: History	King John has the reputation of being the worst King that England has ever had. He has been portrayed in films as a mean, cowardly and unfair monarch who taxed his people heavily, killed his nephew and in battles lost lands in France once owned by William the Conqueror. However, England wasn't easy to rule. John's brother, Richard the Lionheart had spent much of England's wealth fighting the Crusades leaving England in massive debt. John's response was to raise taxes which made him very unpopular. MAGNA CARTA. In 1215, barons (noblemen) cornered John at Runnymede and forced him to agree to what a king could and couldn't do. The agreement known as Magna Carta meaning 'The Great Charter' was a list of rules covering ownership of land, taxes and peoples' legal rights. Trial by jury is one rule that still applies today.

3: RSP	Sawm means fasting. Sawm is fasting during Ramadan, the ninth month of the Muslim calendar. Ramadan is special because it is believed to be the month in which the Prophet Muhammad began to receive revelations of the Qur'an. During the month of Ramadan, Muslims fast during daylight hours and only eat after sunset. Fasting during the month of Ramadan is one of the five pillars of Islam. The name of the pillar is Sawm. What is fasting? Fasting is when someone does not eat or drink. They use their willpower to deliberately control their desire to eat and drink. Many people like to gather together to eat this meal at home or at the Mosque.

2: History	The Black Death was a pandemic that swept from China to Northern Europe. Rats are commonly believed to be the carriers of diseased fleas that passed on the bacterial infection through biting or contaminating food. The disease took 3 forms, with its most common type being the bubonic plague named after the huge swellings under the arms. 1/3rd of England's population died. This left farms deserted with crops rotting in the fields leading to lack of food. Many children were orphaned or left to defend for themselves when their parents panicked and ran away. Lack of workers did enable survivors to ask for better wages as their labour was more in demand. The Hajj is the pilgrimage, or religious journey, every adult Muslim must make to the holy city of Mecca in Saudi Arabia. A person who goes on a pilgrimage is called a Pilgrim. A pilgrim seeks to separate himself from the everyday concerns life, and to spend time in the presence of God as he travels to a place of special meaning. Pilgrims visit places they believe to be sacred (holy), such as where a great religious leader was born, or buried, or where the religion started. A place of Pilgrimage could also be a place where great miracles have happened. Once a year, Muslims of every ethnic group, colour, social status, and culture gather together in Mecca and stand before the Kaaba praising Allah together. The Hajjis or pilgrims wear simple white clothes called Ihram. During the Hajj the Pilgrims perform acts of worship and they renew their sense of purpose in the world.

2: History

Causes of Peasants Revolt 1381 – with rising wages after The Black Death, employers complained to King Edward III. The King responded by putting a cap on wages in 1351, called The Statute of Labourers, that out wages at pre- Black Death levels. 30 years later, peasants were no longer prepared to put up with lack of money when the new King, Richard -who was 14 at the time- squeezed them even more with the new Poll Tax.

Balanced forces have no effect on an object.
If it is at rest (not moving), it remains at rest.
If it is moving at constant speed in a straight line, it continues to move at the same speed in the same straight line.

2: Unbalanced forces

If the forces acting on the object are not balanced then there is a resultant force acting on the object this means that the object is either accelerating or decelerating.

Questions

- In a free body diagram, how is the object represented?
- What is the name of the overall force acting on an object?
- What can we say about the forces on an object that is not moving?
- What happens to resultant force when all forces on an object are balanced?
- What happens to the resultant force when all forces on an object are unbalanced?
- If the resultant force on an object is zero, what is the object doing?

Word Revolution	Contact force	A force that acts between two objects that need to touch e.g. a push force.
	Non-contact force	A force that acts between two objects that don't need to touch e.g. magnetic force.
	Force	A push or pull that acts on an object due to an interaction with another object – measured in Newtons (N).
	Newton	Unit of force named after Isaac Newton.
	Balanced force	When the total force in opposing directions are equal in size.

1: Contact forces	Reaction force	An object at rest on a surface experiences a reaction force. For example, a book on a table
	Tension	An object that is being stretched experiences a tension force. For example, a cable holding a ceiling lamp
	Friction	Two objects sliding past each other experiences friction forces. For example, a box sliding down a slope.
	Air resistance	An object moving through the air experiences air resistance. For example, a skydiver falling through the air.

3: Non-contact forces	Magnetic force	A magnetic force is experienced by a magnetic material inside a magnetic field
	Electrostatic force	An electrostatic force is experienced by any charged particle in an electric field
	Gravitational force	A gravitational force is experienced by any mass in a gravitational field. Masses are attracted to each other, by a gravitational force.

3: Measuring forces	A force meter, also known as a Newtonmeter, can be used to measure the size of a force. Force meters have a spring inside them. The weight of the mass causes the spring to stretch. It is important to 'zero' the force meter before you use it. This means adjusting it so that the reading is zero when there is no force acting on it. If you don't 'zero' the force meter, all your measurements will be inaccurate by the same amount. This is called a systematic error or a zero error.
---------------------	---

Questions	1. What is a force?
	2. What type of force acts when the objects are not touching?
	3. Which scientific instrument can be used to measure a force?
	4. What is the unit of force called?
	5. What is tension?

Word Revolution	Ecosystem	A community and the habitat in which organisms live.
	Community	The collection of the different types of organism present in an ecosystem.
	Habitat	The place where an organism lives.
	Photosynthesis	A chemical reaction that occurs in the chloroplasts of plants in which the energy in light is stored in glucose.
	Population	All the members of a single species that live in a habitat.

1: Food chains

2: Food chains

Food chains always start with a producer. This is usually a green plant or algae that completes photosynthesis to store energy from sunlight as glucose. Grass is the producer in the grass → rabbit → fox food chain. Photosynthesis provides the energy for most life on Earth. A primary consumer eats a producer. The rabbit is the primary consumer in the example food chain. This is in turn eaten by a secondary consumer, which is the fox. After this might be a tertiary consumer (which eats a secondary consumer) and possibly a quaternary consumer (which eats a tertiary consumer), but not in this example. Animals that are hunted and eaten are prey, and these are consumed by predators. The final consumer at the top of the food chain is called a top (or apex) predator and is not eaten by anything else.

3: Food webs

A food chain is a list of organisms in a habitat that shows their feeding relationship, i.e. what eats what. The organisms are joined by arrows which show the transfer of energy in food between them. The stages in food chains are called trophic levels. Most populations of organisms that live in a habitat usually have more than one food source. They usually consume more than one organism from the trophic level below. This means that there are almost always more than one food chain and these are interlinked into a food web.

Questions

1. What is the scientific name for the parts of a food chain?
2. What do food chains always start with?
3. What process do almost all organisms at the start of food chains do, to provide energy for the other organisms?
4. What is the animal in the last stage in a food chain called?
5. What is the third stage in a food chain called?
6. What do food chains added together make up?

Word Revolution	Circuit	A closed loop through which current moves – from a power source, through a series of components and back to the power source.
	Conductor	A material which allows charge to move easily through it. Metals are good conductors.
	Ammeter	A device used to measure electric current.
	Insulator	Material that does not allow charge or heat to pass through it easily.
	Voltmeter	A device used to measure potential difference or voltage.

1: Circuits and current

Electrical components, can be connected together to form a circuit.

A circuit diagram shows how the components are connected.

Use straight lines to show the metal wires and circuit symbols to represent each component.

2: Series circuits

When we connect in series components are all in the same loop one after another, just like episodes of a series on television. The components are connected end-to-end with the last wire completing the circuit to form the single loop, meaning there is only one path for the current to flow through.

In a series circuit, if a lamp breaks or a component is disconnected, the circuit is broken and all the components stop working. Adding more bulbs makes them less bright as current is reduced.

3: Parallel circuits

When we connect circuits in parallel, the components are connected on different branches of the circuit. There are two or more 'loops' and multiple paths for a current to flow. In a parallel circuit, if a lamp breaks or a component is disconnected, the other components continue working. This is because current continues to flow along remaining paths in the circuit.

Questions

1. What material are wires usually made from?
2. What are the 2 main types of circuit?
3. In a parallel circuit, if one bulb was switched off, what would happen to the other bulbs?
4. What happens when you add more bulbs in a series circuit?
5. What can we use to measure voltage?
6. What is the ammeter used for?

Word Revolution	Dispersed	Spread away and apart.
	Ovary	Part of the female reproductive tissue in plants, which contains the ovules.
	Ovule	The structure produced in the ovary of a flower that contains a female gamete (sex cell).
	Pollination	The fertilisation of flowers by passing on their pollen (male gamete / sex cell), so that the pollen can join with an ovule.

1: Structure of the flower

Flowering plants reproduce sexually through a process called pollination. The flowers contain male sex organs called stamens and female sex organs called pistils. The male and female sex cells produced from the male and female sex organs must meet for reproduction to begin.

2: Pollinators	Feature	Insect-pollinated	Wind-pollinated
	Position of stamens	Enclosed within the flower so insects must make contact	Exposed so that wind can easily blow pollen away
	Position of stigma	Enclosed	Exposed
	Type of stigma	Sticky, so that pollen attaches to insects	Feathery, to catch pollen blown from wind
	Colour of petals	Brightly coloured to attract insects	Dull, usually green
	Nectaries	Present as reward for insects	Absent
	Pollen grains	Larger, sticky	Smaller, smooth, inflated

3: Seed dispersal	Explosion/self-propelled	Have a pod that bursts open when ripe, throwing the seeds away.	Pea pod
	Wind	Some plants have seeds that act as parachutes, which are carried away by the wind.	Dandelions
	Wind (spinning)	Some seeds are winged. They spin like helicopters as they fall from the tree, providing a longer time for dispersal by wind.	Maple fruits, sycamore
	Water	Some plants grow near rivers, lakes, streams or oceans. Their fruits or seeds fall from the plant and are carried away by the water.	Coconut, silver birch, willow

Questions

1. What is the name of the process where the pollen joins with the ovule?
2. State the methods by which pollination can occur.
3. What are the names of the male and female gametes in plants?
4. State the 4 methods of seed dispersal

6. Give an example of seeds that are dispersed by the wind.

Word Revolution	Puberty	The time during which sexual maturity happens.
	Hormone	A chemical message produced in the glands and carried by the blood to the specific organs of the body.
	Fertilisation	The joining of a male and female gamete, e.g. in mammals a sperm and an egg (ovum).
	Gametes	Specialised cells which have adapted to increase the chances of fertilisation and successful development of the baby.
	Menstruation	The loss of blood and tissue from the lining of the uterus through the vagina during the menstrual cycle. This is also known as a 'period'.

1: Male reproductive system

2: Female reproductive system

3: The menstrual cycle

The menstrual cycle can be longer or shorter than 28 days, especially for young people who have just started having a period.

Day	Event
1	Bleeding from the vagina begins. This is caused by the loss of the lining of the uterus. This is called menstruation or having a period.
5	Blood loss stops. The lining of the uterus begins to re-grow and an ovum starts to mature in one of the ovaries.
14	Ovulation occurs. The ovum travels through the oviduct towards the uterus.
28	If the ovum does not join with a sperm cell in the oviduct, the lining of the uterus begins to break down again and the cycle repeats.

Questions

1. Which part of the female reproductive system is immediately above the vagina?
2. Which part of the male reproductive system holds the testes?
3. What is the process called when an egg and sperm meet?
4. What is the role of hormones?
5. Which tube carries urine from the bladder out of the body in the male and female reproductive systems?
6. What is puberty?

Word Revolution	Conductor	Materials which allow electrical current to flow through them easily as they have free electrons e.g. Copper used in electrical wires.
	Insulator	Materials that are poor conductors and do not allow electrical current to flow through them easily e.g. Wood, plastic.
	Electric current	An electric current is the rate of flow of electrons around a circuit.

1: Key facts

Electricity is a flow of electrons that carry electrical charge

Metals have free electrons. This means they can move and carry a charge. We call these materials conductors. Graphite is an example of a non-metal conductor as it has free electrons.

Other materials do not have these free electrons. This means they cannot carry a charge. We call these materials insulators. You are unlikely to get an electrical shock from an insulator.

2: Investigation

You can investigate whether something is an insulator or a conductor using a circuit like the one below. You put the material to be tested where the X is. If it conducts the bulb will light up.

3: Circuit diagram

Always use straight lines to represent the wires

Think about using the correct component diagrams to represent the parts of the circuit e.g. bulb

Circuit diagrams can be of series (one loop) circuits or parallel (more than one loop or branch) circuits.

For current to flow the circuit has to be 'complete' i.e. have no gaps or breaks in it.

Questions

1. What is the difference between a conductor and an insulator?
2. Name the metal we normally use in household electrical wiring.
3. Why are the outsides of plug sockets made out of plastic?
4. What do metals have that make them good conductors?
5. Why do you think graphite (although it is a non-metal) conducts electricity?
6. What happens to the light bulb in the circuit in '2' if you introduce an insulator where the 'X' is?

Word Revolution	Foetus	An unborn baby usually eight weeks after fertilisation (conception).
	Caesarean section	A method of delivering a baby by making a surgical cut into the abdomen and uterus.
	Diffusion	The overall movement of particles of a gas or liquid from an area of high to low concentration.
	Amniotic fluid	Liquid that surrounds and protects the foetus.
	Contraception	A method of preventing pregnancy and in some forms sexually transmitted diseases.

1: Gestation and birth

A fertilised ovum divides to form a ball of cells called an embryo.

The embryo attaches to the lining of the uterus. It begins to develop into a foetus and then becomes a baby when it is born. It takes about 40 weeks for a foetus to develop in the uterus. This time is called gestation period.

The foetus is protected by the uterus and a liquid called amniotic fluid.

2: Birth

After gestation, the baby is ready to be born. The cervix relaxes and muscles in the wall of the uterus contract. Waves of muscle contractions push the baby out of the mother's body through the vagina. In some cases a caesarean section is performed as a vaginal birth is not possible for health or medical reasons.

Other substances can also pass through the placenta, including recreational drugs and alcohol. Drugs can affect the foetus - slowing the growth of the foetus, reducing the amount of oxygen and causing bleeding - which can be life threatening.

Drinking alcohol or smoking while pregnant are also dangerous and can increase the risk of stillbirth, premature birth and long-term health conditions.

3: The placenta

The placenta is an organ responsible for providing oxygen and nutrients, and removing waste substances. It grows into the wall of the uterus and is joined to the fetus by the umbilical cord.

The mother's blood does not mix with the blood of the fetus, but the placenta lets substances pass between the two blood supplies:

- oxygen and nutrients
- carbon dioxide and other waste substances

Questions

1. Which term describes the time between pregnancy and birth?
2. Which substances move through the placenta to the foetus?
3. What does the foetus attach to?
4. What is amniotic fluid?
5. What is contraception?
6. What is an embryo?
